To Whom It May Concern:

Quanterall is a company that works in the software development area and is specialized in building highly-scalable backend infrastructures for projects in the field of Blockchain, Fintech, Internet of Things, and Industrial Automation.

To be successful in what we do, we need a reliable and high available infrastructure.

AltScale meets all our requirements in regards to scalability, security, price, and quality. Their team responds quickly and adequately to all of our questions and issues. The company meets our growing demands expanding its infrastructure and provides us with necessary RAM and computing power.

We will continue working with AltScale and recommend it as a reliable and professional provider of cloud infrastructure.

Anton Andonov
CEO
